DE PROFUNDIS PERFORMANCE NOTES

I was asked to write an original composition for choir and orchestra to close a concert I was conducting in Lincoln Center to follow our performance of the Schubert Mass in G. Several things go through one's mind when contemplating writing a piece: the ensembles, a text, a style, etc. Sometimes these ideas arrive all at once and sometimes separately. I wanted to write something with great contrast to the Schubert Mass. I wanted it to be contemporary, but with a strong theme and a strong text. I chose to write melodic themes in D Dorian mode and mixed meters that are sung in unison and parts, but easily recognizable, sung and remembered. I also wanted the piece to be primarily in 5/4. I love 5/4 because the emphases can be so many different places within the context of this meter signature. When I was writing this, the tenth anniversary of the 9/11 attack in our country was also approaching. The anguish of that event for those who perished and survived also invaded my mind as I wrote this. I chose the Latin text of Psalm 130, De Profundis, excerpted from the first four lines of that text. In addition, I felt it needed a connection with the translated text at certain parts of the piece, so I used the first line of the Psalm "Out of the depths I have cried to thee, O Lord!" The muses worked and culminated from there including the final section and G major chord.

It is marked as Mysterioso because in this minimalistic setting, it should be sung with a sense of wonder, contemplation and drama regardless of the dynamic markings. I am pleased that my good friend, Carl Strommen, agreed to orchestrate it for the Lincoln Center premiere and that may be added if you can utilize string orchestra and percussion with your choir. However, it can easily stand alone with just the piano accompaniment.
